BART'S impromptu security check

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND - Bay Area Rapid Transit District Director Robert Allen of Livermore doesn't "want to do anything to play into the hands of a Communist agency," so last week he had the board delay briefly a routine lease agreement with the Bank of Canton while BART's staff scurried about certifying the bank as a capitalist enterprise.

"Is this bank an instrument of the Chinese Communists?" asked Allen, a member of the right - wing John Birch Society.

"Shades of Robert Welch," founder of the society, snapped fellow director Richard Clark in moving to accept the standard land lease with the San Francisco bank. BART has dealt with that bank for years, he said, and Allen's question was "ridicu-

The planning commission recently refused Loren Medeiros a permit to keep this ice house in the parking lot at his Pleasanton Liquors store. The planning commission contended that it would urage other small structures and ice houses on Main Street and that it does not and would not

FBI spurs dragnet for two suspects

CHOWCHILLA (AP) — With one man in custody, the FBI launched a nationwide dragnet Saturday for two other men sought in the bizarre mass abduction of 26 Chowchilla children and their school bus driver.

Charles W. Bates, special agent in charge of the San Francisco FBI office, said arrest warrants had been filed for Frederick N. Woods IV, and James L. Schoenfeld, both 24. Schoenfeld's younger brother, Richard, 22, surrendered Friday.

"Investigations conducted by the local authorities indicate that Woods and Schoenfeld had fled the state," said Bates as the FBI re-entered the strange case.

The younger Schoenfeld, was accompanied by his father, a San Francisco Peninsula physician, and lawyer Edward Merrill when he surrendered at Oakland. District Attorney Lowell Jensen of

Alameda County said Schoenfeld will be charged under a section of the state Penal Code which covers kidnap for ransom or robbery.

Bail for young Schoenfeld was set at $1 million and he was tentatively scheduled to face arraignment Thursday in Chowchilla, 100 miles south of Oakland, before Justice Court Judge Howard C. Green.

In Chowchilla, Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said Schoenfeld would be held in the Oakland jail "for security reasons" until mid-week and to allow him easier access to his Oakland-based attor-

The 26 children and their driver, Edward Ray, 55, were kidnaped at gunpoint July 15 as Ray was driving them home from summer school classes. They were imprisoned in a moving van buried in an Alameda County rock quarry for 18 hours before crawling to freedom.

The younger Schoenfeld walked into the Alameda County district at-torney's office late Friday and turned himself in.

"I just thought it would be better for everybody if I surrendered him now," said lawyer Merrill, who de-fended Symbionese Liberation Army member Joseph Remiro in a 1975 murder trial.

Schoenfeld, clad in a blue teeshirt and khaki trousers, had no comment. His father, Dr. John Schoenfeld, also declined comment.

They were saying he was armed and dangerous, and I didn't want anything to happen," said Merrill. Schoenfeld's brother and Woods are being sought on federal warrants charging them with 27 counts of kidnaping and 16 of armed robbery. They are described as "armed and dangerous."

The armed robbery charges, authorities said, involved trinkets and clothing taken from the children.

The children's escape from their underground prison apparently aborted an elaborate ransom attempt, according to published re-

Earlier burn policy nixed

PLEASANTON — The two men who were disciplined in the accidental burn of the Fallon House had proposed a foolproof burn policy more than a year ago, but it was never adopted, The Times has learned.

Lt. George Withers, who is appealing his demotion from Captain, and Fire Marshal Ted Klenk suggested a year and a half ago that the department adopt a standard operating procedure on fire practice training burns.

Written approval from the city manager, building department, the owner of the property, and the air pollution board would be a necessity in the policy proposed with by Klenk and Withers.

Withers told The Times what happened on the fateful day the house burned down. George Brown, the Assistant Chief in Livermore, called Klenk and said he needed a building for a practice burn. Klenk said he knew of two abandoned buildings on the Stoneson property near Foothill Road. Brown got in touch with Stoneson on the phone and got approval to burn the Duarte House.

Klenk informed Acting Chief Bert Cherry of the proposed burn site and location and that Brown had approval from Stoneson

"Cherry called me and asked my involvement," said Withers. "I said I had not had information on it until that day. Cherry identified the location of the burn to me.

"Cherry asked if I was aware of which building the Duarte structure is, and I replied, 'Yes, it's the southernmost one.' He said as long as you know where the Duarte House is ...

The Duarte House turned out to also be the Fallon House, but neither Klenk nor Withers knew it.

Herald and News reporter John Oliver came to the burn site when the structure had been about a third or a half burned and asked whether they were, in fact, burning the Fallon House. Klenk reportedly told Oliver that the Fallon House was next door; the flaming building was the Duarte House. Oliver thought Klenk was mistaken. He had taken pictures of the building, assuming it was the Fallon House. But he told the firemen he might be mistaken. Oliver returned later when the building was "in a state of collapse," said Withers. A couple of minutes later, Marie Cronin of the Dublin

Historical Society arrived on the scene. By then only one wall stood.

She reportedly insisted they had burned the Fallon House. At that point Withers ordered the flames extinguished. It took two more hours to subdue all of the burning, said

"Apparently they (the city administration) feels that I was responsible for not stopping the burn," said Withers. "But the person doing the burn (Assistant Chief Brown) said it was the Duarte House and in my mind it was the Duarte House," said Withers, who lived in the valley for 28 years and always heard it called the Duarte House.

During the whole course of events, Marie Cronin was the only one who could tie Duarte and Fallon together as owners of the house at different periods of history, said Withers. Fal-lon owned it a hundred years ago and Duarte for the past 28 years until Stoneson bought the property. "I don't know who owned it between then," said Withers.

Withers said that an evaluation of his past year's performance was also a factor in his demotion. But he did not have an opportunity to read the evaluation prior to the demotion, he said.

Noting that two fire department lieutenants won their appeals requesting salary increases denied them by supervisors, Withers said he thinks the same prospects look good for winning his appeal.

He felt the committee was saying that evaluations of the lieutenants were arbitrary. "I think we can show our evaluations were done more arbitrarily than the lieutenants," said Withers.

Klenk is not appealing the action against him. He would not tell The Times what action was taken against him. Reportedly it involved a pay cut. He still is Fire Marshal and has not suffered a demotion from his lieutenant.

Asked why the punishment for Withers seems to be more severe than for Klenk while both were on the same scene, Withers guessed that it may have had something to do with himself being the senior officer present from Pleasanton

Bid period extended on church move

An extended bidding period has been granted to the Building Committee of the Presbyterian Community Church in Pleasanton following a Thursday night meeting of the congregation and committee.

Lack of time (two weeks) was the reason given as to why no bids were received for the job of moving the church from its present location, 100 Neal Street to a site on Mirador Drive. It was also stated that there were too many, "optionals" included in the last plans to make it feasible for the bidding to be completed in that time period.

The committee will now go "back to the drawing board" for the next two weeks with "skin bone plans" being drawn up for the new bids. Upon completion of the bare bones drawings, four weeks will be given for receiving bids.

When the bids are received, another meeting of the congregation will be called to determine if the bids meet with the approval of those who are committed to the move.

SAN RAMON — The San Ramon Valley Unified School District's Educational Facilities Corporation Board of Directors will hear a status

Board members meet at the Education Center, 699 Old Orchard Dr.,

Danville, at 8 p.m. The annual meeting is for the purpose of not only hearing a status report on the transaction, but to review authorization of a site lease between the San Ramon district and the corporation, and the acceptance of a bid to purchase bonds of the corporation and authorization of execution of certificates of membership. The Educational Facilities Corporation will also, per routine, consider authorization of the execution of construction contracts between the corporation and construction contractors, and various other authorizations concerning architects' contracts, change orders, written requisitions, and retention of accountants to audit the corporation's pletely graded, a bond issue that would have provided monies to build a portion of the school was resoundingly defeated by district voters.

It was later revealed the district probably could not have built on the site even if the measure had passed.

The amount an architect would get for such a project is dependent on what the district gets from the state, district business manager Phil Chubb stated Friday

The Murray administration apparently feels it doesn't owe Aitken anything more for the above - mentioned project. The closed session Monday night may revolve around Aitken's contention to the opposite.

Still simmering just below the surface, though, is the status of monies remaining from a successful 1972 bond directed to building a new

According to Chubb, $600,000 in bonds remain from the issue.

"If we did attempt to sell those bonds now," Chubb said, "it could jeopardize our position under the State Building Program. We're in no position to get out from under that program now.

However, Chubb claimed if direction was forthcoming from the Citizens Advisory Committee, via the board of trustees, the district could consult with the state in an effort to gain funds for construction and not

A prospective report by Richards and the CAC study of seventh eighth grade housing are expected to be ready for board review by earvice principal positions at that time. The Amador budget hopper will also contain the Amador High library addition project. Delayed by plan and cost considerations, it was further idled by the necessity of a seismic study being done.

The project has been scaled down to 58 by 58-feet, but would not be feasible if it had to be trimmed any further, states Doug Rose, assistant superintendent for business ser-

Though both districts will receive approximately $175,000 as the result of Senate Bill 1641's passage, budget trimming will still be necessary.

Both boards reviewed priority cut lists several weeks ago, as worked up by Superintendent Bruce Newlin in conjunction with the business services office.

Listed as top priority cuts for the Amador school district were extending of the walking area to three miles for Dublin and Amador Valley High students, towel service, elimination of freshman athletics and district support of extracurricular activities, elimination of uniforms for maintenance personnel, and reduction of allocation for school supplies and materials.

Extending the walking area would allow the Amador district to take three buses out of service, resulting in most students at Dublin and Amador becoming "walkers.

Prime budget cuts for Pleasanton include extending the walking area an additional one-quarter mile, elimination of the K-5 instrumental music program, eliminate uniforms for maintenance personnel, eliminate towel service, cut one librarian position, reduce district media center personnel, and abolish the Out-door Education program.

Extension of the walking area would also take three buses out of service and create more middle grade "walkers.

Formalizing of the teaching vice principal positions for a second year is expected. As presently struc-tured, Harvest Park would also have a teaching vice principal. Should the latter be approved, TVP positions at Harvest Park and Pleasanton School would be open.

The latter vacancy was created by Ron Dell'Immagine accepting a vice principal position in Novato.

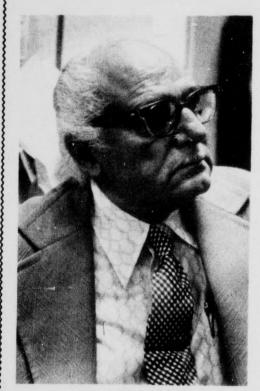

Pleasanton and Amador also have meetings scheduled the following week, the annual budget hearings slated Tuesday, Aug. 3 (Amador), and Wednesday, Aug. 4 (Pleasan-

Julie Hemming's self confidence as Maid of Alameda County and state crown contender is supported by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hemming of Pleasanton.

County Maid amazes parents

By LILLY AULT
As we sat listening to the tape recording of Julie Hemming doing her singing per-formance of western - country style, all she could say was, "I can't believe I did it!" Her parents chimed in agreeing, "Neither can we!"

Julie holds the title of Maid of Alameda as well as Maid of Pleasanton and will be competing for the title of Maid of California at the State Fair in

The fair young maiden who's "not as much as sung a solo in the shower" according to her father, made her debut in singing, "I'll Get Over You" by Crystal Gayle, while Marty Robins was at the Alameda County Fairgounds amphitheater during the fair.

"It started out as just a joke and kind of a bet type thing," explained Julie. "When Mar-ty Robins came into Pleasanton for his performance, we were sitting around talking and I said to him, "It would be like a dream come true if I could sing with you — more or less joking." According to Ju-lie the reply came, "Well, if we can clear it through the union you are on."

The next thing Julie knew she was practicing with the band a couple of times and then there she was in front of the audience "having her dream come true.'

"After we realized she was not kidding when she called home to tell us she would be singing, we thought she was going to do a small bit with Marty Robins," stated the proud father. "When she got out there and did her solo like an old pro we just couldn't an old pro, we just couldn't believe our eyes and ears.

Following the program, Julie went out to get a program for Robins to sign and while doing this she was rushed by people wanting HER auto-toward the performance she states again, "I can't believe I did it, but it was fun and I enjoyed it."

The talent of singing, however, comes to Julie quite naturally for her mother is a past concert singer who has performed in many musicals. She was invited by the Business and Professional Women's Club back in Virginia to do a performance for them.
The show was all set to go when Mrs. Hemming looked out and saw "a lot of dignitaries sitting in the front row."
She immediately went to her accompanist and told him that she had to change her song as what she had selected would not be appropriate for the crowd that was there.

Following her performance, which according to her admiring husband, was excel-lent, she was invited by Lincoln White, press secretary to the State Department, to sing for the Kennedy's who were at that time, occupying the White House.

"I know my own limitations," stated Mrs. Hemming in giving a reason for not accepting the invitation. "1 have never studied music and I knew what the Kennedy's would want in the line of entertainment.'

Mr. Hemming disagreed. Jokingly he stated, "After all these years I though it was because she chose to marry Seriously he stated, "I know if she accepted that invitaion I would have lost her and I didn't want that to happen. She may never have tak-en a singing lesson," he said, "but she has a beautiful voice and an octave range of three and one half. That performance I felt, would have led her into the professional world.'

Their daughter, Kathy Hemming Johnson, who served as Maid of Pleasanton in 1969 - 70, is an accomplished pianist; their son, Jerry taught himself how to play the guitar and their son Walter sang as a baritone in a prize winning quartet. Talents in the Hemming family are unlimited.

The entire family is "pulling" for Julie to come home as Maid of California when she competes with approximately 30 to 36 other maidens at the Fair. However, the Hemmings have another great happening in their family which is due about the same time, a new grandchild.

For Julie, who "never even expected to win the title of "Maid of Pleasanton," it has been a "fun thing." The graduate of Amador High School was a pompon girl, a princess for her junior class and in her senior year, the home coming queen for her school.

and sews most of her clothes including the gown she will be wearing during the pageant at Sacramento.

Presently she is working as a receptionist at Valley Real-ty with thoughts of going into the real estate business although she eventually would like to get into the fashion world.

The pert young blonde is looking forward to going to Sacramento to compete, again, for "the fun." If she wins, she feels that's an "extra bonus" for her. She heads for Sacramento for practice and preliminary judging. Judging is on face, figure, poise and personality. All girls will take part in the pageant scheduled for Aug. 22 at the State Fair, however, the 10 finalists only will be eligible for competing for the title. Winner of the pageant performs the duties of being at the State Fair every day greeting guests.

Marilyn Fraser, who works as fair hostess during the Ala-meda County Fair will be Julie's chaperon while she is in Sacramento.

Lake scare on plague discounted

LIVERMORE — Despite a bubonic plague incident recently at Lake Tahoe, campers are using the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District's picturesque Camp Shelley in record numbers this year, reports Parks Superintendent Lowell Bergman.

"It's just a bunch of publicity the newspapers and TV stations have worked up," Bergman said of the closing of Plumas Eureka State Park at Tahoe. A six year - old girl had contracted the rare disease while camping there with her family. But no other cases have shown up, the area has been scoured for afflicted rodents and Plumas

Eureka has reopened.
"This should have no effect on anybody," Bergman said of the isolated incident. The plague, a scourge in the Middle Ages but a non - fatal disease in modern times, is carried by fleas who bite afflicted rodents and then spread the disease if they bite a human being.

In medieval cities, the plague was carried by rats; at Tahoe, the carriers are chipmunks. Biologists have been examining dead chip-munks, but so far have not found evidence to indicate there's a plague outbreak at the resort area.

A Kern County man re-cently died of the plague. But, according to Berg-man, "If they get to medical attention within a reasonable time, it can be taken care of."

He added there have been only 10 cases in the entire country, since the disease has been virtually stamped out with insecticides and strict sanitation.

Camp Shelley offers 25 campsites suitable for tents or light campers. The pine studded campground, which is leased by Livermore for the use of local residents, is in the shadow of snow - covered Mt. Tallac and other Sierra peaks, and is a short hike from the beach.

Reservations may be made at the LARPD office, 71 Trevarno Road, at $2.50 per night for residents, $5 per night for others.

Lab escaped strike

LIVERMORE — An agreement has apparently been negotiated between Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and members of Laborers' International Union Local 1276 that will avert a strike of 316 employes, a Lab spokesman said.

The union, representating machinists, stores personnel and warehousemen, threatened to strike if a $70 a month across - the - board increase mandated for state employes was applied to them. The union argued that they were not state employes, and that imposition of the pay hike would delay and diminish future raises. The Lab decided Tuesday that the $70 a month hike should be applied to the union and most Lab employes, but added that salary reviews should be be conducted on a regular timetable. The union reportedly agreed that the timetable was fair, and agreed not to strike.

The Lab determined that employes of the facility were not state employes, but employed by the regents of the University of California, which operates the Lab.

A graduate of Amador Valley High School, Ann's birthday is Sunday.

And depending on the tour schedule, she just may be marking her very special date in Paris.

Learning of the Foreign Study League junket at Amador, Ann registered for the month-long excursion and left with a group of 250 students from the Bay Area on July 2.

From Oakland International, the flight touched down in Italy where the tour broke up into groups, each with chaperones provided by the Foreign Study League, a subsidiary of Readers Digest Magazine.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Farwell of Moselle Court, Ann has already been to the Vatican, visited St. Peter's Basilica, and navigated a portion of the Swiss Alps.

An initial surprise was learning the drinking age in Austria is just 16— but she is longing for a tall, cool glass of milk, according to her parents.

Having already taken in Rome and Salzburg, Austria, Ann's tour group was scheduled to travel on to Lucerne, Switzerland, Paris, and London.

All tour participants have ample opportunity to "see the country" and are not confined by a "see 30 cities in five days" type of schedule.

Ann has one sister, Jane, who is a student at Amador Valley High.

She will arrive back in the Bay Area from Europe on Thursday, July 29. -by Al Fischer

Ease Dow controls board asked

Lesher News Bureau SAN FRANCISCO — Bay

Area air pollution control officials are being asked to relax regulations in order to clear the way for the proposed Dow Chemical Co. $500 million complex near Pittsburg.

D.J. Callaghan, head of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, already has said preliminary findings indicate Dow may not receive the necessary district permits for the first phase of the petrochemical operation.

The Times supports Livermore city council and the Valley Community Services District in their move to assure a public ballot on that outfall line to the Bay.

The concern by some members of the Pleasanton city council that "voters might reject the plan simply because it means an increase in local taxes" is unfounded, and darned near unconstitutional. Most of our citizens are well aware of the issue: the press is up to here with coverage and commentary on the subject; the impact of no action is beginning to hit us where it hurts ... in the community pocketbook, with lost revenues, unfinished streets and parks we can no longer afford.

This newspaper is confident that, given all those facts, the Valley's electorate will see the need for affirmative, long - term action, of one kind or another, that will get "the sewer problem" off the front pages and out of the political arena.

It remains for local officialdom to convince all of us that the outfall line is the best way to go, perhaps even the only way to go. The press will have its responsibility, and the voters will have the final say. That is the way it should be.

There is no question that the more casinos built on the Nevada side, the more revenue for Nevada which leans heavily on gambling for its support.

Gualco thinks legislation he has authored to change the board composition, making it more broadly representative of local, state and the public in general, plus some other changes may get

From past experience it is no bet, and Gualco may end up as heart-broken by its failure as did

There is only one sure way of saving what Mark Twain and others have called the world's most beautiful lake. That is to prevail upon the federal long as jurisdiction over it remain split between two states there is as much chance of controlling composed of locally elected officials of the two many as 90 per cent of those who flock to the shores voke a terrific battle despite the offer to relocate states rather than non-locally elected members of Tahoe don't give a damn about the lake and its the gamblers.

The fact is that development already has gone shores, polluting the lake and depleting the water way too far. If it were halted now entirely the lake will still become a disaster in its present useage.

This should be the first fact to recognize and Gualco could look for greater success in preserving Tahoe by directing his efforts toward a federal takeover. Existing privately owned properties should be eminent domained. The gamblers can be satisfied by buying them out and permitting them to rebuild on an expanded Reno site edging the California border. They will be just as happy and probably happier since highway and air access is better and, additionally, people can get there by rail.

Sure it will cost the government a bundle but compared to what was spent in Vietnam and what continues to be spent in foreign aid it is a drop in the

As for the high rise hotels and most other facilities already built at the lake, all would not be wasted. According to some authorities in conservation organizations, most if not all of the structures would be fully utilized by visitors coming there simply to enjoy the wonders of the lake and its sur-roundings. The junkier buildings could be razed and never missed.

The real question is whether the public will support the cost of remedying its monumental error of not taking steps to preserve Tahoe before it all got out of hand. There is no doubt such a plan will in-

Disaster hits U.S. athletes

MONTREAL — United States athletes failed to win a medal in either the 100-meters dash and the shot put for the first time in over 40 years yesterday at the Olympics.

Haseley Crawford of Trinidad was a surprise winner in the 100, running a 10.06. Don Quarrie of Jamaica was second and Valery Borzov of the Soviet Union third. Harvey Glance of the United States finished fourth.

Udo Beyer of East Germany won the shot put. Al Feuerbach of the Pacific Coast Club was the top American as he finished fourth.

The United States did receive good efforts from several athletes, however. Rick Wohluter won his 800-meters heat and Mac Wilkins broke the Olympic record in the discus trials with a 224-foot toss. Edwin Moses broke his own American record in the intermediate hurdles with a 48.29 clocking in one semi-final.

Furtado wins at Altamont

Rod Furtado breezed to an easy victory in the main event in Golden State Racing Association competition at Altamont Speedway Friday night.

Furtado warmed up for the main event by breezing through his four-lap qualifying race in 17:72 seconds, second fastest of the night. It was ironic that Nick Ringo, who posted the fastest qualifying mark with a sizzling 17.36 clocking, was a distant second to Furtado in the main encounter.

Bob Beck was third in the finale and Jerry Frietas finished fourth. Dave McKinnon was fifth. Only five of the 16 cars entered went the entire 21 laps.

Furtado also won the first heat, beating out Earl Kelly and McKinnon. Ron Kelly was fourth and Eddie Casho finished fifth.

John Pearson captured the top prize in the second heat, breezing in ahead of Ringo. Beck was third, Jerry Freitas fourth and Don Bowden was fifth.

Attendance and car entrants were down because many racers were competing at Madera.

Keeping kiddos occupied

Luring your children to the backyard might be easy, but can you keep them there? If interesting play materials are provided there is less chance of boredom. The well-planned play yard can be a minivacation for parents.

A group of Chicago women, all mothers, who conduct a project, Parent as Resource, have published a number of little books on child - parent play. One, book, "Backyard Vacations," has a number of good ideas for captivating the imagination of children in outdoor play.

The four women members of PAR travel over the United States to provide information to educational groups on parent-child play relationships. They also have conducted television programs on the subject.

An outdoor play area can be as inexpensively simple as large boxes, old tires, bricks, a long board, rope and some old pots and pans, the book points out. You don't need fancy equipment unless you want it. Low picket fencing may confine the area in an attractive way but it isn't really necessary.

For example, for a sandbox, fill an old tire with sand and add pots and pans, empty milk cartons, unbreakable utensils. A balance board may be made by placing a long board over it. A knotted climbing rope from a tree branch can be fun. A swing using two pieces of sturdy rope with a tire or board for a seat is another good

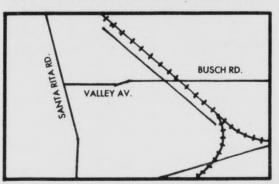

An old barrel can become a tunnel by opening both ends or several boxes could be be linked for a long tunnel.

Large packing boxes are ideal for playhouses or "pretend place" — grocery stores, school houses, fire stations or even ticket windows. A parent should help with projects which involve cutting window or door space with a knife.

The little dollar book also tells how to conduct a backyard carnival, a pet show, neighborhood toy fair, a scavenger hunt. It also provides directions for various simple crafts.

In providing a play area for youngsters, choose a partially shaded spot, one with a big tree or an overhang from the house.

For small tykes, a tub of water can be a lot of fun to sail boats (made out of little cartons) and for splashing. A shower might be rigged up in the yard if there is a run off for water that will not dampen the play area.

usually placed directly below the item in question. For instance, let's say you want to buy canned peaches. Unit Price tags for various brands of peaches will tell the per-measure price. If quality and appearance are vital, you may want to choose from the top brands. But if peaches are to be used for pie, you can choose the lower priced because appearance isn't important. Unit Price tags will also help you determine which size is the best buy for your needs. Cereal is a good example of items in different weight packages with varying total prices. How do you decide among the vast array of packages? Look at the Unit Price tags! They provide helpful quantity-cost information. Study the tags and then make your choice based on price, taste preference and the amount you need. Buy the larger sizes only if they will be consumed while still fresh. Make your buying decisions by using the Unit-Price tags and you'll be a better shopper.
